

I'm writing in support of low-power radio. In this era of media consolidation, if there is to be any genuine diversity in the media it will have to come from such sources as this. I, for one, have been cynical about the FCC's statements about how its trashing of the Fairness Doctrine, etc. are good for diversity. Prove me wrong by fostering what you've implied that you support.